EQUATORIAL AFRICA AND THE GORILLA. LECTURE BY MONS, P. B. DU CHAHLU, AT THE BESON

blergy of Brooklyn, among whom were the Revs. H.-W. Beecher, Dr. Rockwell, William Alvin Burtlett, and Dr. Tanfield, were scaled ex-Mayor Hall, ex-Mayor Kalbleisch, S. B. Chittenden, esq., and others of note. The ecturer was introduced by Mr. Mills, who stated, in the course of his narodicalors, reports, that the declarations especially the latter. They fear the spirits of the recently-dead people. They carry to the forests for them presents of foed every dity, at first; but as the memory of the dead vanishes from their minds, these presents are less frequent, until finally the spirit is left to starve; The children, in all these claus, belong to the family, not of the male, but of the femile, the wife. Each clau possesses a large idol; and when an expedition of any kind is to be undertaken—fishing, hunting, or trading—they dance round their idol. Next in order to the idol comes the charm, or felish. The negroes are very superstitions. Those charms are made of the skins of curious animals, the claws and teeth of other beasts, the feathers of birds, and the skins of serpents, carefully packed in small bandles, and worn by the men or the women round the neck or the waist. Every charm has a special power. One gives to the hunter a safe hand; another will make the lover successful; another; will prevent the man from being bewirched. These gives him good luck in the hunts, a steady aim in killing his them they must not biame me if he died. I we then they mad know he was dead. In the afternom, the people began to talk of witcheraft. They said: "This man has been bewitched; who has killed him! The doctor drank the preparation:" then, in a harsh voice, he described a young woman, who, he said: "I will advise the described a young woman, who, he said: "I will did not old the water." The doctor mentioned another name, that of an elderly woman. They were taken to the river, placed in a canoe, and made to drink. On that occasion there were three victims. Sometimes whole claims are thus sacrified. In that time: the wild have been the river plotting: they call it by the word meaning feast; and a feast there means to get drunk. After the feast is over, the whole clan goes into mourning, which lasts for a year or two. During that time the villagers wear no kind of ornaments whatever. They wear as few clothes as they selves with askes. After the mourning comes the celebration at a little place of mine on the bank of the Fernand Vaz Elver, which I had named Washington. Upon the son who inherits the property devolves the daily of this feast. At this time the willager, we have the celebration at drink addaese they drink a kind of palm wine called mimbo. The noise was so great I could not sieep. Toward 4 o'clock in the morning the people became a little silent—were too drunk, in reality, to nake more noise. At 6 o'clock was the counclading cremony."

In this case the heir had been tery generous; he had given two of the seven widows to his younger brother, and one to his first cousin. It was in that country in a surprise with a first own of the seven widows to his younger brother, and one to his first cousin. It was in that country in the surprise with the situation of the seven widows to his younger brother, and one to his first cousin. He was in that country in the surprise with the widows helonged to different men. In this case the heir had been very generous; he had given two of the seven widows to his younger brother, and one to his first cousin. It was a hitch t feed upon the berries and nuts of the forest. The chimpanzees or gorillas are not found on the East Coast, which would indicate that the large forests of intertropical Africa do not reach the East Coast, that there is an intervening cap of barren or prairie land, where they cannot live. I reanember the first time I ever saw the chimpanzee; it was in the Cape Lopez country. I was knugry, fancied I would like buffule-steak, and my men were out in the woods trying to bring the furfule toward use. I stood in the woods, when, all at once, I saw a black face coming toward me. Talkking it was one of myimei, I did not fire, when, suddenly, the boast eaw me, utsered a cry, and disappeared. But the meet curious of the chimpanzees, certainly, are the bull-headed. They have, in fact, "no hair on the top of the head, in the place where the wood ought to grow," as the sough has it. Laughter.] They have a much narrower range than the other species of chimpanzee or the gorifa; they are much smaller than the others. I never found this kind of chimpanzee higher than four feet and three or four inches. They are far less powerful than the other species of chimpanzee and the gorilla-are even less powerful in proportion than their diminabled size would indicate. They are covered with jet black hair, which is longer on the arm and face; have whiskers coming from below the cars, and of course their face is intensely black. I was once haming the forest in the Balailai country and the Mpongwe, when suddenly I saw a female chimpanzee with a young one chinging to ber. The mother was cating berries, occasionally looking fondly at her bally very much as a human mother would at hers. Extraordinary as it may seem, and much to my own surprise, the sim of the young chimpanzee was white, whiter than mine, but very pale, just like the skin of a dead person. We fired at and killed the mother and, of course, captured the baby. I immediately ordered a retreat to the camp. The itthe chimpanzee was white, whiter than mine, but very pale, just like the capacity of this class of chimpanizes to be about 22 to 26 cubic inches. The skull of this bald-headed ape does not so nearly resemble the skull of a man as does that of the gorilla. It seems to be a cariesture of man. The entire bony frame of the gorilla also bears a closer resemblance to that of a man than does that of the bald-headed chimpanize. You cannot claim a single bone more than the gorilla. The gorilla has 13 pairs of ribs, and the man has 12, and you must remember that man a long time ago lost one pair of ribs, which women ought to know something about. I Laughter.] Perhaps bachelors still retain the thirteenth pair. [Renewed laughter.] The great power of the gorilla, compared with man's, is well shown and accounted for in this immense ridge (referring to a painting of a gorilla, to a ridge of bone represented on it, running from the check to the pairetal bones, to which powerful museles are attached. He is very much like man in hight. I have had in my collection specimens five feet to inches in length. The gorilla roams in the forest and feeds on berries, never remaining two days in the same place. With his enormous canines, I doubted his being exclusively a vegetarian, and examined the stomaches of all those that I killed, to see if there were traces of animal food, but in examining some 40 specimens in that way, I never found any trace of it, and I think we must therefore conclude that ne is a vegetarian. Some gorillas measure five feet 10 inches round the chest, while the middle finger of the hand on some of them, measures six to six and a half inches in circumference. He has the same number of teeth as a man—the milk teeth—at first 28 teeth, and four additional risk length of the chest, while the middle finger of the hand on some of them, measures six to six and a half inches in circumference.

He has the same number of teeth as a man—the milk teeth—at first 28 teeth, and four additional risk length of the cortila and the pairs with his mate, and they go jogether. I remember the first time I sa I think we have not quite found out all the mains of the gorilla yet. I have done the best I could; but, like other men, have doubtless made many mistakes. But whatever mistakes I have made have been made unintentionally; for I have had a conscientious desire to make none. [Appliause.] When I came to a civilized country I thought I could introduce a new fashion; but I found I could not. The pictures back of me represent the enormous chignons which I found worn by the women of Ashangi. They hast two or three months; and safter wearing them that length of time, you can well imagine what discoveries a naturalist might make in them. [Laughter and appliause.] But the chignon is not the only requisite of beauty among the Ashangis; in order to make that complete, the woman must have the four upper incisors pulled out, the four lower incisors filed to a point, the face and body tattooed, and their eyelashes pulled out. When they do this, they are regarded as having attained all the beauty possible to them. The Ashangi women do not come to the dignity of such a chignon as these in the painting before they are 25 years of age. The Ashangis have large villages, some of them being of more than 200 houses, and the villages are surrounded by 200 plantain groves. I was much pleased with that tribe. When I was in the interior, I reached the territory of the Oborigos, the only dwarf tribe I met, and which may be the Pigmies of Evarardus. They varied in hight from 4; to 4; feet—small men and women, I was frequently solicited to marry. One of the most frequent proffers I had was a proffer of wives, and I had to make a speech of an hour to them to explain to them that I did not want to marry. When I was in the Ashangi country, I was once sitting with the natives, with a plantain before me, when a gun went off. I saw the people running away in consternation, and when I turned I saw a man iying dead. I had only three boys and four men, and was 480 miles from the coast, this pair the village who were in favor of accepting my proposit

THE BLOCKADE RUNNER. SPRINGBOK.?

The case of the United States against the steamer Springtok has been finally settled. This vessel was captured on the 3d of February, 1863, by the U. S. steamer Sonomas, and was condemned for attempting it run the blockade. The cargo and yessel were both condemned in the District Court. An appleal was taken to the Supreme Court from the decree of Judge Betts. On the appeal a decree was entered condemning the cargo, but ordering the restoration of the vessel to her owners. The vessel is worth shout $8,000; the cargo about $00,000. The latter will be distributed among those entitled to share by participating in the capture. Mr. Ethan Allen, Deputy U. S. District-Altoney, appeared in court, and flied the buandate and decree of the Supreme Court as received from Washington.

DEMURRAGE—CUSTOM OF THE PORT.

Turser act Van Dusen, Lochman & Co.

This was an action for demurrage. The plaintiff is the master and ewner of the canal boat Olive Branch, and brought a cargo of coal to this city, consigned to the defendants, to whom he reported his arrival sarly on Wednesday morning. As the boat was not unloaded until the following Tucsday afternoon, he sued them for three days demurrage, which they refused to pay, on the ground that according to the custom of this port, they were allowed four working days to unload capai boats.

excluding the day of arrival, and that he was only clusted to one-day's demurrage, which they were willing to pay. The plaintiff's counsel claimed that as the plaintiff reported before buildness hours on Wednesday morning, the beat ahoud have been unloaded by faturday-evening, and that the plaintiff was entitled to pay for the fellowing Senday, Monday and Tuesday. The defondants counsel claimed that the plaintiff was not enhibted to any demurrage for funday, and that the defondants had until Monday evening to unload the boat. The case was fully argued by the respective counsel, and the jury rendered a version in favor of the plaintiff for the full amount electrons.

INSPECTOR.

United States art. L. P. Heriburd.

The defendant is an Internal Reyeaue Inspector in the XXXIId District. He was brought before the Commissioner on a warrant issued on the following affidavit.

About ten days ago we bought of Messrs. Thomas Thatcher & Co., of this city, 464 barrels of distilled spirits, in bond at No. 89 Front-st., where it had been since December, 1866.

On April 30 we gave the required bonds to remove it to our rectifying house for redistillation, and, under the usual permit for that purpose, granted by Collector Shook, had so removed ever 300 barrels, when, on the afternoon of yesterday, the 3d inst., 44 barrels were seized by L. P. Huriburd, bearing a commission as Revenue Inspector, and acting under the orders of Col. Hillyer.

The ground, or pretended ground of seizure, was that the packages did not bear the proper brand of removal from the District in the West, to this, the XXXIId District. We stated to him that we had only just come into possession of the whisky, and were unable to give him such permit, but that it was being removed under permit of Collector Shook, which we would show him if desired. He declined to recognize it, and insisted upon making the seizure of the 48 barrels, then on the trucks waiting to be unloaded.

We then said to him that he might permit the whisky

He declined to recognize it, and insisted upon maing the seizure of the se barrels, then on the trucks waiting to be unloaded.

We then said to him that he might permit the whisky to be pleced in our store ganged and inspected, for which we would give our receipt.

He professed himself entirely satisfied with our responsibility, but refused to allow the whisky to be unloaded, and directed the carts to take the whisky away, which we refused to allow him to do.

He made application at the Police Station, near by, for assistance, and the police took charge of it and drove it to a bonded warehouse, as directed by said Hurlburd.

The packages did bear the proper brands required in case of removal from one District to another, as an examination will show.

Said Hurlburd was accompanied by another person, under whose direction he (Hurlburd) seemed to act, and who was intoxicated. We also believe said Hurlburd to have been in some degree under the influence of liquor. The manner of both was very oppressive and arbitrary—shouting, &c., so much as to collect a large crowd in the street.

One of our employ&states that he heard Hurlburd use

One of our employes states that he heard Hurlburd use he following language: "If they (our firm) had not nade such a fuss be would have settled it for $100 or $130 nd released the whisky." Another says that Hurlburd aid, "If there was not such a crowd I would have re-did not know on what grounds to food 11. The sain head, and it has not been reported to Collector Shook in any form.

Immediately after the occurrence, one of our firm called at the office of Col. Hillyer, and he lwas not to be found, and his office was apparently described; the only representative being one clerk; the hour was 2.45 p. m.

Wherefore deponent charges that the said L. B. Hurburd has been guilty of willful oppression in the discharge of the duties of said office as aforsaid. M. R. Cook.

Sworn to before me this 3d day of May, 1867.

Gro. F. Bette, U. S. Commissioner.

There is statute imposing penaltics on public officers who in the discharge of their duty shail act in an oppressive manner, and defendant is held under this statute. This is, we believe, the first case of the kind in this District. The defendant gave bail in $1,000 to appear for an examination, on Thursday next, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The FORGERIES IN THE CUSTOM-HOUSE.

The trated States agt. Affred St. Clair.

This case, in which the defendant is charged with altering pay-rolls in the Custom-House and presenting them for payment, was resumed. Two witnesses were examined for the prosecution. One of them, Mr. J. H. West, a porter in the Custom-House, restified that he saw the defendant, on the day when it is slieged he presented these pay-rolls, get a check cashed at the cashier's desk for $202 0. Patrick Coyle, an usiner in the Custom House, identified a pay-roll shown him as one given him by the defendant to collect.

The further examination was adjourned to Wednesday, demand from investing parties. The news from Europe has given new confidence to holders, and the opinion is everywhere expressed that large amounts will be wanted not only upon the Continent but in England, where our bonds have been in less favor. State stocks continue firm, and railway mortgages of second quality slow of sale. Railway shares opened with a fair degree of firmness, but closed dull. There is no outside demand, and it is apparent to experienced observers that the firmness of the past few days is an artificial condition, produced to enable operators to saddle the street with their loads, growing daily more irksome to carry. The Express stocks are higher. Merchants' Union has been placed on the Regular Board, and sells at 17-equal to 75. The Company is fast increasing its popularity in business, and the stories told to its disadvantage are sheer inventions and wholly unwarranted by the facts. Best names pass at 6 | $\alpha 7 \frac{1}{2}$, and a good deal can be had at $\alpha 10$. The Bank statement will not be so favorable as those of the past four weeks. The deposits, it is stated, will show a gain of $5,000,000, with an increase of an equal smount in gold. The loans are up $3,000,000, and the legal tenders down $2,500,000. The Western money markets are all reported active at 8@10 per cent, with great care taken in making loans. The wool crop will soon demand quite large advances of money from the East, and in a few weeks the wheat crop will give employment to a good deal of capital, which must go from the Atlantic cities. As the legal tender money of the country is steadily falling, by Mr. McCulloch's judicious funding, there is every reason to expect an active money market as the season advances, and little hope of cheaper rates than the present, during 1867.

The railway reports of earnings are not encouraging. The Rock Island earned the first week in May:

1867.....$64,570 | 1868.....$77,357 | Dec.....$12,787 The earnings of the Michigan Central Railroad Company for the month of April were: 1867...$362,783 23 | 1866...$$43,736 96 | Inc...$19,646 27

Some of the roads which, with the North-Western, report earnings upon a short line last year, against a long line in 1867, make gains which are wholly deceptive. . The receipts of the Des Momes Valley Railroad, for the month of April, were as follows: 1867...$59,195 80 | 1868...$39,599 64 | Inc....$19,598 16 The business of the Sub-Treasury was: Receipts for Customs, $472,000; for Gold Notes, $284,000; total Receipts, $3,451,642 91; total Payments, $638,222 85;

In Freighte the engagements to Liverpool are 7,000

The meeting did not result in any satisfactory settlement of the questions under consideration. It was organized at 12 m., with the Hon. Samuel Sioan in the Chair, and L. Sykes, Secretary, and from that hour until 11 o'clock in the evening a storny debate was heid. The interests of the lines are so diversified, and the representatives of each road were so strontous in the maintenance of their respective views on the subject, that it is safe to say that they are as remote from a permanent settlement of the question as when they first met. It was believed by those having the matter in charge that the meeting would last two days, but shortly after it was open the fact became apparent that the conflicting elements could not be harmonized, consequently many delegates went home before adjournment, and many who remained did not enter into the spirit of the meeting.

The main questions were, in almost every instance, evaded by referring the same to committees and associations, for report at a future meeting, and almost every measure contained a proviso which doubtless will kill the object sought to be gained. Among the questions discussed were those relative to paying commissions to fast freight lines for the purpose of influencing freight shipments, and the abolishment of the pass system in the case of drovers, or the abolishment of all free passes given on account of freight received. These questions went into the hands of committees. An effort was made to agree upon established rates of transportation of five stock, to be adhered to by all trunk lines and connections, the violation of which would subject the offending road to certain penalties. The meeting did not result in any satisfactory settlement be adhered to by all trunk lines and connections, the vio-lation of which would subject the offending road to cer-tain penalties.

A resolution was adopted, with what unanimity we are unable to state, making it obligatory upon all roads to re-fuse freight for the Baltimore and Ohio road except where charges were prepaid, unless that road agree to enter into the proposed arrangement.

The number of railway men in attendance and the mag-nitude of interests involved, were larger than any previ-ons meeting ever held in Cleveland could show.

the Fort Wayne stock will close on Saturday next, May 18, to reopen on Monday, May 27, preliminary to the meeting of the stockholders on the 25th inst., (Saturday week.) to determine upon the increase of

L.P. Morton & Co.'s Circular says:

The peculiar condition of the country resulting from the derangements inherited from the late war, has produced a marked conservative feeling in every branch of business. The prevailing disposition is not so much to speculate upon the uncertainties of the times as for each one to keep his affairs, as far as possible, in a safe and controlable position, so as to be prepared for whatever may occur in the return of affairs to a normal condition.
This feeling exhibits itself in a disinclination to invest in new enterprises, in the low prices of many classes of securities as compared with their current dividends, and in a disposition to curtail the production of many kinds of manufactures which are selling materially below cost.

The opening of Spring develops the fact that last year's harvest was much shorter than is generally known, and that there is little or no grain in the North-West to come forward. The Western lines will have a starving time this Summer, and we must expect a continuation of the pending railroad war. A director of the New-York Central says that their agents West think they will have to run their cars empty from the West this Summer. The repairs of Western roads made necessary by floods will be enormous. Those of the Iowa Division of the North-Western are placed by competent authority at $700.000. The Railway Convention at Cleveland has proved a total failure, and the competition for business at "non-paying rates" is to continue. The Cleveland Herald of Thursday says:

The meeting did not result is any satisfactory settlement of the questions under consideration. It was organized $1000 test and the purchases were entirely for immediate wants. Very few out-of-town beyers made their appearance in the market.
